PREFACE

This is the tenth edition of the HAND BOOK OF THE CHINESE STUDENTS IN U. S. A. since the first printing in 1924.

The Hand Book has a three-fold purpose. The first, to inform all Chinese students with the names, addresses, subjects, and other activities of their fellow students, and to assist American friends, research workers, and Chinese, both here and at home with historical records, vocational recommendations and references. The second, to facilitate communication between newcomers and old residential students, between undergraduates and their alumnae friends, between students seeking facts, opinions and other information from authoritative persons; and to acquaint students with their "comrades," and with other students taking similar courses. The third and last, to unify the 1,305 Chinese students now distributed among 123 institutions throughout the United States.

The sources from which this text have been compiled are: (1) Offices of the Registrar of the various institutions; (2) Local students' clubs; (3) Catalogues from institutes; (4) Individual correspondence; (5) Personal interviews, and (6) Chinese Educational Mission, Washington, D. C. Due to the fact that addresses are constantly changing, and that some of the institutes and clubs did not respond to the questionnaire, the Hand Book does not claim perfection. If, however, your name or that of your friend does not appear in the Hand Book, please notify the Editor, and such information will be inserted in the next issue.

This Hand Book is free to every Chinese student and will be mailed to the address given in this book.

We wish to express our warm thanks to the officers of the local clubs, the Registrars of the institutions and the Chinese Educational Mission. We are also greatly indebted to the advertisers who have given us financial support. To all our fellow students we extend our best wishes for their academic success and experiential progress.

WILSON S. WEI.

Greetings

from

His Excellency, Dr. Sao-Ke Alfred Sze, Chinese
Minister to the U. S.

Confucius says: "The rising generation should be treated with a certain degree of awe; for who can tell what the future has in store for them?"

Our great sage, therefore, inculcates proper consideration for youth. It is upon the coming generation that China relies for her future greatness. The students of today will occupy positions of responsibility and power tomorrow. What China needs most is trained men. It is a great pleasure to me to find thousands of our students in American schools and colleges, preparing themselves for the work they have to do when they go back to China. They all have my best wishes.

GREETING

KARL T. COMPTON

President of Massachusetts Institute of Technology

THE MASSACHUSETTS INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY takes this opportunity to send its greetings and best wishes to the many Chinese students who have taken their training in Science, Engineering or Architecture at this Institution. Among the many foreign students who have attended Technology, the contingent of Chinese students has made an enviable record. This Institution is glad to have been of service to Chinese students, and solicits their continued interest and good will.

MESSAGE FROM DR. HAWKLING YEN, CHARGE d'AFFAIRES

It affords me a source of gratification to know that the Hand Book of the Chinese Students in U. S. A. will continue to appear for the year 1933. The mere continuation of the publication of this handy book appears to me to attest to its usefulness and its fulfillment of a need which all Chinese students both here and in China have constantly felt.

It also gives me great pleasure to be reminded that there are as many as fifteen hundred Chinese students—girls as well as boys—now prosecuting their higher education in the States. They are following various lines of college work and are scattered among 123 institutions in different parts of this country; and from the statistics compiled one is further gratified to find that the popularity of selected courses has been gradually shifting from philosophical or literary subjects to the studies of applied sciences.

The mere fact of the presence of so many students in various parts of America not only signifies the acquisition of scientific knowledge by the eager minds of young Chinese who on their return to their native land are bound to exercise a great influence in bringing their scientific knowledge to account when China is just beginning to become mechanized, but also means a good deal of personal contacts between these Chinese students and their American friends in different localities of this country, which accounts, it appears to me, to a great extent, for the sympathy and good feeling subsisting between the two peoples.

The Committee responsible for the edition of the Hand Book should be congratulated for the successful effort they have made in placing the facilities at the service of not only the Chinese students but also those who care to know something about them. I particularly welcome the emphasis which the editor placed in that this Hand Book signified unity, to which I should like to add that it also signified constructiveness, both of which should be our guiding principles especially at this moment.

HAWKLING YEN.

OBJECTS

The objects of this club are:

- (1) To promote the interchange of knowledge and to cultivate a spirit of cooperation among the members.
- (2) To encourage friendship between the members and Americans.

MEMBERS

28.

ACTIVITIES

To attain the objects of this club as outlined before a Social Committee and an Athletic Committee were created and have been very active.

It is a common practice of this club to hold a celebration of the Double-tenth Anniversary. To promote the understanding between and the friendship of the two peoples, Americans of this city were either invited to a banquet or addressed through the local newspapers. On many an occasion in the past, as in this year, some of the members of the club were active in making speeches in Churches, in Cornell-in-China Club, in radio talk, and in other public assemblies as that of Y. M. C. A., etc.

In athletic fields, the name of C. C. S. C. is usually linked up with championships of soccer and volley ball games.

In grateful memory of

Mr. & Mrs. Russell M. Keith

(Formerly of Cleveland, Ohio, and Pasadena, Calif.)

who helped many Oriental Students

Every Chinese student who comports himself to the credit of his country's name is an inspiration to all Chinese overseas, away from our beloved homeland.

Confucius says—"To contract ties of friendship with any one, is to contract friendship with his virtue. There ought not to be any other motive in friendship." TENYI HSIEH, Director.
